In a statement released Tuesday by the PRC-affiliated Committee for Agrarian Reform (CAR), the communist group said the Aquino administration should prioritize the agrarian reform program, which was one of the 2012 campaign promises of Aquino and President Noynoy Aquino, instead of allocating more funds to the stalled Priority Development Assistance Fund (PDAF). ADVERTISEMENT READ: Marcoses allege Noy Aquino stole P9-B RA call center funds The CAR pointed out that the Aquino government has already spent P5 billion in the capital, even before the transition, while the PDAF has not been used to its full capacity as Aquino had promised. The statement also criticized Aquino's supposed change in direction to cut down corruption and protectionism, as both are "fatal" to the development of the nation. "His statement of cutting down on corruption was immediately followed by his protectionist propaganda, which is also flawed and destructive for the country's economy," the statement said. "Benigno Aquino is no more a leader but an opportunist opportunist," it added. The CAR also described Aquino's administration as one that is single-minded in its pursuit of its own agrarian reform agenda despite obvious impediments to its implementation, saying the Aquino administration had set aside serious concerns on the need to reach a consensus among stakeholders and the need to understand the effect of its agrarian reform policies. "That is why the Aquino administration is pushing all forms of enacting its own agrarian reform agenda despite serious political, economic and social challenges," it added. "On the other hand, the Aquino e79caf774b
