When you start to reflect on your life this year, it's important to remember that it is about something bigger and more significant than what you see with your physical eyes. When you think about your life in this bigger sense, you will find something amazing happening inside of you, something you never thought possible. Your self-love will be on a new level and it will allow you to experience what you thought only people on the far side of the road could afford. There is something special in our year number 10. Let's call it a new decade, a new frequency for us to manifest things that have always been in our heart. I invite you to take this time to really think about what you want this year. How would you like to feel, what would you like to accomplish, what are you passionate about? When you start to think about how you want to take your life into the New Year, the Universe will begin to speak to you as much in your dreams as it is in your waking life. From what I can tell from my experience in this area, it is best to think about what you really want as much as you can. In other words, keep your energy aligned with what you want at all times. Here are a few ways to get ready for this big year: Practice loving self This is the most important thing you can do. You need to come to understand that you are a beautiful creation. When you love yourself on a deep level, you gain access to a whole new frequency of existence in this world. It will enable you to attract into your life those things that you want, things that will lift your vibration, things that will raise your frequency even higher, and ultimately, things that will allow you to open up to a higher level of your Spirituality and the divine. When you understand that you are a beautiful divine being, you gain access to your own magnificence. You will be amazed at the magic that you unlock and experience in your life when you love yourself. 6d1f23a050
